

WARM HOME DISCOUNT COST RECOVERY CONSULTATION
END FUEL POVERTY COALITION RESPONSE
5 January 2026

The End Fuel Poverty Coalition is a broad coalition of more than 100 anti-poverty, health, housing and environmental campaigners, charities, local authorities, trade unions and consumer organisations. It is also supported by academics, social enterprises and those working on the front line of fighting fuel poverty.

The End Fuel Poverty Coalition supports efforts to make energy bills fairer and less regressive. We see value in the proposal to recover WHD costs through unit rates rather than standing charges, but this change must be underpinned by thorough impact analysis and safeguards for vulnerable households.

Ultimately, a shift to general taxation funding would be the most equitable and socially responsible way to support the Warm Home Discount in the long term.

Q1. Considering the impacts across all consumers, including protected groups, do you support moving WHD costs to unit rates?

We support the principle of moving WHD cost recovery from standing charges to unit rates if it is accompanied by robust impact assessments, safeguards for the lowest-income and vulnerable households (e.g. those with high energy usage due to medical / disability needs). We also need to have clarity on how changes will interact with other reforms and changes to energy bills announced in the Budget.

Q2. Are there alternative approaches that should be considered to mitigate potential negative impacts on consumers?

Yes. EFPC suggests exploring mixed funding models including partial funding from general taxation, differential impacts by tariff and payment method, and additional targeted rebates or credits for households with medical dependencies or electric-only heating.

Q3. To support rebalancing of costs between gas and electricity, should the government consider placing greater cost recovery of WHD onto gas?

We are concerned that any rebalancing of these costs at the current time would increase the numbers of households unable to afford to heat their homes. Even taking into account the welcome changes to bills in the Budget, energy costs are still too high with 12.1m households spending more than 10% of their income on energy bills and a third of the country unable to heat their home to 18 degrees centigrade. Increasing the unit costs of gas will mean even more households are unable to achieve this threshold and the risk of living in cold damp homes will increase.

Therefore, any rebalancing between fuels should be guided by detailed impact analysis and mitigations, ensuring that the millions of households that rely on gas for heating are not unfairly disadvantaged.

Supplier-focussed questions:

Suppliers should be able to recover costs predictably. However, concerns about cost variability under a unit-rate system should be explored further and reflected in reconciliation mechanisms. There should also be more transparency about cost recovery and payments to households.

We would be grateful if you could continue to keep the Coalition informed about developments in this consultation.
